Dr. Koenecke Is Named Chamber 'Citizen Of Year'

One faculty member at Murray State University compared her to a good watch — "pure gold, open face, busy hands and full of good works."

With those words, Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce bestowed its coveted "Citizen of the Year 1978" award to Dr. Alice Pixley Koenecke during the Chamber's annual banquet Wednesday night.

The award, given to the head of the chairman of MSU's Department of Home Economics, had a double meaning. Dr. Koenecke's son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Koenecke of Jerseyville, Ill., surprised her by showing up for the occasion.

Walt Apperson, publisher of The Murray Ledger & Times, vice president of the Chamber, introduced this year's "Citizen."

Dr. Koenecke told the large audience attending the function, "I'm very, very honored to receive such a distinguished award and I'm particularly pleased Bill and Marsha came so far for this...It is a joy to serve in any capacity that I can and to show my gratitude to the citizens of the world, Murray, Murray State University. I feel very proud to be a part of Murray State University...I've enjoyed my contacts with my colleagues and my students...It is a joy to work in my church and community and it really, really is a joy to serve."

In introducing Dr. Koenecke, Apperson said, "Jim Johnson, executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, says apparently, we are going to have to change the rules. If a man ever wins the Citizen of the Year award again, equal rights for women has asserted itself in Calloway County because for the third time in four years, a woman has won this coveted award..."

Mrs. Betty Lowry won the award last year and her husband, Dr. C.C. Lowry won it the year before. Margaret Trevathan, Calloway County head librarian, won the award for 1974-75. "Her story is one that has touched hearts and minds of almost every person she has met in her long and distinguished career," Apperson said.

The Chamber vice president described, "Alice Koenecke was born in Wabash County, Ill., on Jan. 3, 1926, just before the start of the Great Depression. She went through grade school and high school in Wabash County, and just a few weeks after graduation from high school in West Salem, Ill., she married Henry C. Koenecke in 1944. In Sept., 1945, their first and only son, Bill, was born. And just nine short years later her husband Henry died, leaving Alice with a nine-year-old boy and a high school diploma.

"In a fashion typical of Alice, she sat down and looked squarely at her problems, and her blessings. Alice wanted to live a satisfying life, both as a mother and an individual. She loved her life as a mother and a homemaker and didn't want to give up either. She had to find a gainful occupation, so she determined that further education in the field of home economics would allow her to fulfill her dreams," Apperson said.

Apperson told of how Dr. Koenecke enrolled in Eastern Illinois College in 1955 and graduated in 1958. She obtained her masters from Southern Illinois in 1962 and her doctorate from the same university in 1969.

Dr. Koenecke served on the faculty of Southern Illinois in 1968 and 1969. While studying for her advanced degrees, she served on the faculty at Murray State from 1960 to 1965. She returned to MSU to head the Department of Home Economics in 1969.

"Dr. Koenecke has received just about all the professional honors offered in her field. She was president of the Kentucky Home Economics Association in 1973-74. She was Kentucky's representative to the Lake Placid Conference in 1974. She is national program chairman of Kappa Omicron Phi and the Kentucky delegate to the International Federation of Home Economics Council and Congress in 1976. She is presently serving as president of the National Council of Administrators of Home Economics," Apperson said.

Dr. Koenecke has served as chairman of the Calloway County Unit of the American Cancer Society this year.

She is active in the Heart Fund, Red Cross, Civic Music Association, United Campus Ministries and First United Methodist Church in Murray.

"During my 43 years in the Methodist ministry, Dr. Alice Koenecke has been one of the two most effective church women I have known. She has been active in every phase of church work, James A. Fisher, former minister of the First United Methodist Church in Murray, said today.

Dr. Koenecke joins a long list of local citizens honored by the Chamber with its "Citizen of the Year" award since 1958.

James "Jim" Catlett, executive director of the South Kentucky Industrial Development Association in Hopkinsville, gave the keynote address during the annual function.

James Catlett Addresses Local Chamber

'Stand Up For Your Interests,' Industry Official Says

A man who calls himself a "matchmaker between industry and local communities," told Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce members Wednesday night to stand up for their interests in Congress and in the state legislature.

James "Jim" Catlett, executive director of the South Kentucky Industrial Development Association said, "You (Chamber members) can make a difference...it's people like you who can do a lot to protect our free enterprise system."

Catlett was the keynote speaker for the 52nd annual banquet of Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce held on the Murray State University campus.

The Chamber also Wednesday night bestowed its coveted "Citizen of the CHAMBER CITIZEN — Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce named Dr. Alice Koenecke its "Citizen of the Year 1978" during the Chamber's 52nd annual banquet Wednesday night. Year 1978" award on Dr. Alice Koenecke, head of the MSU Department of Home Economics.

Catlett told Chamber members to become involved in political action committees. He said such committees can make their interests be known to congressmen and those running for public office.

Catlett, whose organization represents the electric power distributors in 26 Western Kentucky counties, said he's seen four new industries come to Murray in recent years, adding 1,400 new jobs to the local economy.

He said 60 percent of new capital expenditures for industry in Western Kentucky come from the top 500 companies in the nation. "A major selling factor with these companies is livability and community leadership," Catlett told Chamber members.

He said manufacturing here puts over $15 million worth of wages into the local economy. "A dollar paid in the form of a salary turns over three times," he said.

"Industry is essential to future employment...last year alone you had 400 high school graduates here. These are the ones we owe future employment for," Catlett said.

He criticized the burden of rules and regulations government is placing on business and industry. "We've had 17,000 new bills submitted in the last three years in Washington. The result was 687 new laws and 12,120 new rules and regulations...The business community is going to be legislated into oblivion," Catlett said.

He pointed out that business and industry interests "were able to kill a lot of bad bills before Congress" during the last term. He said that during the Kentucky General Assembly, business and industry interests were able to improve the products liability law and have in input into the Workmen's Compensation legislation.

City School System To Finally Get Its Buses

Murray School System is among those in the state that'll finally be getting two new school buses ordered by Kentucky Department of Education from an Arkansas firm earlier this year. Delivery is over three months behind schedule.

The firm, Ward Industries of Conway, Ark., is being given one more chance to deliver school buses to the state. Ed Fossett, general counsel for the Department of Education, said the company has been given until the end of the year to make final delivery on all buses ordered by the state. Fossett said the firm, which has already paid a $154 per bus penalty for 374 buses that were not delivered by Aug. 1, would be penalized an additional $100 per day, per bus not delivered after Jan. 1, 1979.

Willie Jackson, superintendent of transportation and pupil personnel for the Murray City School System, said late Wednesday afternoon if the buses are ready, he and others will be leaving today to drive to Arkansas and get the vehicles.

Murray School System has operated its transportation system the early part of this school year using a borrowed bus from the Calloway County School System. "We had intended to have eight buses — one spare and seven on the road — but we're using the spare." He said there were times this school year when the Murray System borrowed more than one bus from the nearby Calloway County System. "We've had no problems and that was due to the cooperation of the Calloway County School System," Jackson said.

When the Arkansas firm couldn't deliver nearly half of the 775 buses originally ordered by the state by the Aug. 1 deadline, the state agreed to extend the deadline until Nov. 1 with the cash penalties.

Jackson said the Murray system will be one of those getting the $154 rebate.

When it became evident the firm also could not meet the Nov. 1 deadline, the state Board of Elementary and Secondary Education last month directed its staff to continue negotiations with the firm to get the new buses in the hands of local school officials. Fossett said earlier this week the primary concern of the state was getting the buses as soon as possible.

Hidden Talent... Orchestra Members Are Unsung Heroes Of 'Music Man'

By BARBARA BLIVIN

Much of the talent in the Community Theatre's coming production of "The Music Man" will be hidden away in a corner. That's where the unsung heroes of the show — the members of the orchestra — will be.

The reason is so the orchestra won't draw attention away from the performance. But the orchestra does deserve some attention.

Most of the members are students at Murray High School. But that doesn't mean that they are lacking in talent. In fact, the opposite is true. According to Buddy Light, the orchestra's director, all of the high school students involved have received various honors for their musical ability. Those honors range from participation in the All-District band, to selection to the All-State band.

"I got the best available musicians for the orchestra," Light said. "Two members of the group are assistant band directors at Murray High, and our bass player also has an extensive background in music."

The assistant directors are Frank Schwab, who will be playing trombone, and John Goode, who will be playing trumpet. The bass player is Ron Hampton, former musical director for Memorial Baptist Church. The only other members of the orchestra who are not students at Murray High School are Lisa Francis, a music student at Murray State University, who will play the piano, and Mary-Lou Johnson, a Murray State student, who will play flute.

The rest of the orchestra is composed of these high school students: Leslee Grogan, flute-piccolo; Sharon Blodgett, Amy Noffsinger, Deena Dailey and Mary Ann Roberts, clarinet; Jill Thompson, bass clarinet; Lisa Russell, tenor saxophone; Gus Moore, baritone saxophone; Shari Crafton, Ben Moore and Matt Burke, trumpet; Doug Crafton, trombone; Robert Johnson, drums; and Karla Russell, bells.

But talent alone does not make a quality orchestra. Hard work and dedication are also involved. The "Music Man" orchestra has plenty of both. According to Light, the orchestra will put in almost 20 hours of practice during the two week rehearsal period. "That's not really enough," Light said. "Ideally, we should have gotten the music about two months ago. We'll have to work extra hard."

That's where the dedication comes in. "I feel confident that we will be ready by opening night," Light said. One of the reasons for his confidence lies in the attitudes of the orchestra members. "They are willing to put in the extra effort because playing in the orchestra is something they want to do. It's a different experience for them."

As is the case in any musical production, the orchestra can either add or detract from the performance. From all indications, the "Music Man" orchestra will be a definite asset to the show. Light added that he hoped the interest shown by the members of the "Music Man" orchestra will pave the way for future musical theatre productions.

"The Music Man" will run for two final performances on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 17 and 18.

Performances will begin at 8 p.m. in the Carman Pavilion across from Calloway County High School. Tickets are $2.50 for general admission; $2.00 for students, and $1.50 for senior citizens and children under 12. Groups of 20 or more can receive special rates by calling 759-1752 by noon of the day of the performance to be attended.

TALENT AND HARD WORK COMBINE — Led by Buddy Light, the orchestra is shown rehearsing for the Murray-Calloway County Community Theatre's production of "The Music Man." The final two performances will be presented Friday and Saturday nights, November 17 and 18 at 8 p.m. in the Carman Pavilion across from Calloway County High School.

He's Oversexed And Underwilled

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My head is spinning with indecision. I'm in the process of getting a divorce, and my husband is begging me to give him another chance.

The problem has always been that Harry can't resist young girls! I was 16 and he was 27 when we married, and during our six-year marriage Harry got five girls pregnant! One was barely 15, and he'd have gone to jail for sure if his boss hadn't retained a really good lawyer. After that Harry had a vasectomy and now we can't have any more children. We have one little boy and I've had four miscarriages, and I've always wanted another child.

I decided to divorce him after I caught him in the bushes in broad daylight with his 18-year-old niece at a family 4th of July picnic.

Abby, Harry is really a sweet guy and a wonderful provider. (He's a top salesman.) Half of me says, "Take him back," and the other half says, "Go through with the divorce."

I may be crazy, but I still love him.

PRISONER OF LOVE

DEAR PRISONER: Listen to the half with the brains in it and don't take him back until he gets into therapy. If you resume your marriage in his present state, prepare to live indefinitely with a weak man who has a weakness for young girls.

DEAR ABBY: Where is it written that it is bad manners to tip the owner? I mean the owner of a saloon, a restaurant, a beauty parlor or a barber shop.

When the owner is right there serving the public I think he (or she) is every bit as entitled to a tip as an employee. If there is such a rule of etiquette, I think it is dumb and should be done away with.

What do you think?

A QUESTION OF TIPPING

DEAR QUESTION: Some die-hard traditionalists insist that "owners of the establishment should not be tipped." However, I believe good service should be appropriately rewarded regardless of who provides it.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell SICK OF THE SAME DRESS whose co-worker wears the same dress for two weeks straight that she's lucky she doesn't work with my husband.

He wears the same pair of trousers every day until they wear out.

He says it's too much trouble to take the things out of his pockets every night!

GIVEN UP ON HIM

DEAR GIVEN UP: Your husband is slackadaisical.

HEALTH

Lost desire for sex

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 57 and I had my uterus removed when I was 25 because of a tumor. Everything was just fine until after I went through the change of life, and then my sex desire left me completely. That was about four years ago. My doctor says he does not have a pill to take care of it. Do you have any thoughts of advice that would help me?

DEAR READER — Your letter points out a fact that I have tried to make to many of my readers about hysterectomies. If you have all of your uterus removed, but the ovaries are left alone, you will continue to have a normal hormonal balance. That's why you had a normal balance from the age of 25 when you had your surgery until age 53, which is when your ovaries failed.

The woman who has a hysterectomy and needs hormone support already has ovarian failure, or may have had her ovaries removed because of disease at the time of the surgery. It's the ovaries that provide the hormone function and not the uterus.

Your doctor can check to see if you have an adequate amount of female hormones, or if you need additional hormone for your body. While I don't know what the tumor was that caused you to have a hysterectomy 32 years ago, it's unlikely that it would be a significant factor in deciding whether you could or could not use female hormones now. Certainly, 32 years after removal it would seem logical that you wouldn't need to worry about a malignancy.

Since you don't have a uterus, you certainly can't develop a malignancy of the uterus now. The other question is the status of your breasts. If you do not have a lumpy breast and need female hormones, there shouldn't be any good medical reason why you couldn't use them. Of course, if you don't need them, then there is not much point in prescribing them.

A lack of sex desire in middle age may have nothing to do with the menopause, but may be associated with psychological factors in some women. This is a common age in life for depression, disappointments and changes in attitudes, whether one has normal hormone function or not.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-12 on menopause because it gives you some basic information on how the female hormones work, and what changes a woman can expect during her change of life. Other readers who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am concerned about my 25-year-old husband's health. He has been throwing up blood occasionally for the last two years, usually when he is upset or has too much alcohol. He refuses to see a doctor believing that he probably has an ulcer and there is nothing to worry about. Could this be a symptom of something serious?

DEAR READER — You bet it can be. An ulcer that bleeds is serious in itself. If that is the cause, he could develop massive bleeding. Anybody who vomits blood should certainly be seen by a doctor.

You can bleed from the lower esophagus (food tube) from wrenching, even with induced vomiting. And alcohol can irritate the stomach to the point that it bleeds, but that certainly deserves medical attention, too. There isn't any really good advice I can give you except to urge your husband to see a doctor as quickly as possible.

Miss Debra Sue Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tucker of Kirksey Route 1, and Steven Ray Crabtree, son of Mrs. Myra Crabtree, 1013 Story Avenue, Murray, and the late George R. Crabtree, were married on Saturday, Oct. 14, in the sanctuary of the Seventh and Poplar Church of Christ, Murray.

The double ring ceremony was read by John Dale, minister of the church.

Miss Gina Crabtree, sister of the groom and classmate of the bride, and Robert L. Blalock, friend of the couple, were the only attendants. Members of the family and close friends were in attendance.

Reception

Following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Rue Nix of Murray.

Assisting in the reception were Mrs. Billy Rue Nix, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Jerry Tucker, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Valerie Crabtree, sister of the groom.

The reception table was adorned with a fall floral arrangement of mums in a silver bowl flanked by candles in silver holders. The two tiered wedding cake was topped with a bouquet of fall flowers. Cake, punch, nuts, and mints were served.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Crabtree are now residing at Hazel. Mrs. Crabtree is a 1978 graduate of Calloway County High School and Mr. Crabtree is a 1977 graduate of the same school.

PAINTING GIVEN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 1892 painting by Swiss artist Ferdinand Hodler has been given to the Los Angeles County Museum of Art by museum trustee B. Gerald Cantor.

The Museum says Hodler (1853-1918) "is recognized as a major figure in the Symbolist movement and an important precursor of Expressionism."

It says, "Hodler established his reputation with several large, symbolic canvases whose compositions are characterized by a poignant sensitivity of line tempered by cool paint handling."

Local Scene

PICTURED ARE some members of the Pi Kappa Alpha, a fraternity on the Murray State University campus, as they hold props of the Murray-Calloway County Community Theatre taken from the Old Freight Depot. As the Depot is being moved to the new City County Park, the "Pikes" assisted with the removal of theatre sets, costumes, and properties from the old building to a temporary storage area. Several Community Theatre productions have been presented at the old historical landscape. Those assisting are: Jimmy Carter, Terry Lax, Chris Durning, Max Tompson, Mack Bushart, Terry Clark, Paul French, Tab Brockman, Mike Jump, Brian Kunze, and Brian Warner.

"This program could very easily change a woman's life, and Homemakers were so impressed with his program, a standing ovation was given," said Mrs. Bennett.

Mayfield Woman's Club Hears Mrs. Hart As Luncheon Speaker

The Mayfield Woman's Club met for luncheon on Thursday, November 9, at the Dakota Feed and Grain Restaurant in Murray.

Mrs. Stephen Creighton, president, extended a welcome to guests and members. Mrs. Ted Duncan presented the devotional and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. George Hart, of Murray.

Mrs. Hart is a former librarian and now writes a column for the Murray newspaper. She used as the subject for her talk, "Bed, Board and Bottles," in telling of her recent trip to Russia.

She spoke of the sad expressions on the faces of Russians, and how women cleaned the streets with "bush brooms." She pointed out the contrast of the guides and their happy expressions because they were being well paid for their services, and all plans were made in advance. The tourists were not allowed to visit Russian stores, but were allowed to see just what was planned for them to see, she added.

Mrs. Boyd And Mrs. Sumter Have Exhibits, Art Guild

Daisy Boyd of Murray and Mary Frances Sumter of Alto Route 1 have exhibitions of their art work on display at the Murray Art Guild, located at 103 North Sixth Street, Murray, during the month of November.

The public is invited and urged by the Art Guild members to visit the guild during the hours of 12 noon to 4 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday, to see the works of Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Sumter, along with other art works at the Guild.

Mrs. Boyd, a native of Graves County, said she had always been interested in art; however she had no formal training until she lived in Woodbine, Ga., a small town near Jacksonville, Fla., and near the ocean where there was great enthusiasm for oil paintings.

The Murray woman had various teachers while there including Mrs. Sterling of St. Mary's and Bill Hendricks of St. Simons Island. They later moved to Cedartown near Atlanta, Ga., and she studied there under the direction of Peggy Whipple.

Since the retirement of her husband about a year ago, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd have resided in Murray and she is continuing her interest in painting of which oils is her favorite medium.

Mrs. Sumter is now having her first exhibition of work. She has had basic drawing courses at Murray State University under the direction of M. Brun, and is now taking a class in life drawing.

The Alto Route 1 women has been commissioned by the Bethel United Methodist Church to paint a picture of the old church and a picture of the church as it now stands.

Both Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Sumter are members of the Murray Art Guild.

Explanation Due From Magistrates

The Calloway County Fiscal Court has taken it upon itself to "spread it around," as one magistrate put it, when making purchases for the county.

That's well and good. We agree that every local business possible should receive its fair share of government business.

But, in this case, we question the validity of the action, particularly since it will cost Calloway County taxpayers $1,167 more than is apparently necessary.

This action by the Fiscal Court, taken during its Tuesday afternoon session, seems to undermine the basic reasoning behind requiring government agencies to make purchases of $5,000 or more through the bid process.

The idea behind the bid process is, in our way of thinking, to not only give everyone an opportunity to sell its goods to the government agency, but to protect the taxpayer from extravagant and wasteful spending by elected officials.

If, as one magistrate said, the Fiscal Court wants to spread its business around, why advertise for bids in the first place? It seems a simpler solution would be to buy from one vendor this year, another next year, and so on in a round robin fashion until the circle is completed.

The problem with this, however (we'll answer our own question), is that the Kentucky Revised Statutes prohibits such a round robin approach to purchasing by governmental agencies in the state. The KRS requires any purchase of $5,000 or greater to be made via the bid process and the "lowest and best" bid to be accepted.

"Best" is the kicker in this situation. According to Walter Herdman of the Kentucky Attorney General's office, a governmental body is not bound to accept the lowest bid if it deems a higher-priced product to be in the best interest of the taxpayer. To a point, we agree with that philosophy.

But if all bidders meet the specifications asked for in an advertisement for bids and a practical reason for choosing one bidder over the other is not given, we think the lowest bid should then be judged as the 'best' bid.

Calloway County Judge-Executive Robert O. Miller and County Attorney Max Parker both advised the members of the fiscal court that they should be prepared to explain why they accepted the higher bid of $27,777 for the purchase of two dump trucks.

We think the fiscal court had better be prepared to explain their reasons, because we believe the taxpayers of Calloway County should demand such an explanation.

What A Girl's Life Was Like When She Lived In Wells Hall

The girls wouldn't recognize Wells Hall today!

Saturday, the stately old Murray State structure, built in 1925 and used for more than 45 years as a girls' dormitory, will be rededicated after a year-long renovation job converting it into an office building.

Where the popular lobby was will be the President's office. Where the girls' room and the sun porch were on the third floor is now a spacious, beautifully paneled meeting room for the board of regents.

All four floors, with exception of the health services area — now in the ground floor northeast corner where the dining area used to be — have been remodeled into offices and classrooms. You have to see the changes to appreciate the extent of the remodeling, but it's nice. The new Wells Hall is a first-class office building, and one of which we all can be proud.

What was life like within its walls when the girls were there?

Having been born a male child, I wouldn't know other than from hearsay. So I asked some of those who lived there at one time or another. This is what I learned.

There were two girls, known as "roomies," to a room with exception of the larger rooms on the third and fourth floors adjacent to the east sun porches. These held four girls each. Baths were taken in "community shower rooms," one on each floor of each wing.

There were no telephones in the rooms. The only phone was in the office off the lobby. If a girl was called on the telephone, or her "date" called for her at the office, her room was buzzed, one buzz for one girl, two for the other.

If the girl called was unable to go to the office, her roommate, or someone nearby, would answer the call or give a progress report to the waiting date.

"It was awful," one laughed, "talking to a boy friend or your parents there in the office with the dean, the student workers and everyone within earshot listening to every word you said."

All the girls had to be in the dorm by 9 p.m. on Monday through Thursday nights. Fridays, they could stay out until 11 p.m., and if there was a dance on Saturday night, they didn't have to be in until midnight.

All had to "sign out" whenever they left the dorm after 6 p.m., regardless of where they were going. They always had to "sign out" if they left the campus during the day, even to go to town. When they returned, they "signed in."

"There was no such thing as getting out over the weekend unless you were going home," one recalled. "to do this was like getting an act of Congress passed with your parents' written permission."

The favorite last-minute courtin' places on the big veranda were behind its huge columns, and couples often left The Hut or the Library a few minutes early in order to grab a choice spot for these tender, parting moments.

At 10 until 9 the lights blinked. This meant it soon would be time to come in. Five minutes later, they blinked again, indicating it was time to get inside. At 9 p.m. sharp, the doors were locked.

To get in after that, a tardy girl had to elude the night watchman, toss pebbles against her room window so her roommate — or someone — would come down to a rear or side door and help sneak her in. Sometimes, the dean of women would be the only member of such a welcoming committee.

To be caught at this resulted in a "call down," and so many "call downs" led to being "campused." This meant the offender couldn't leave the campus the following weekend — or several weekends — for any reason.

"Call downs" also were given for failing to sign in or out, having lights on after the 11 p.m. "lights out" time and other minor offenses.

Of course, there were no TVs or stereos in the dorm's earlier days, and only the more affluent girls had radios — many tuned softly after hours to the music of Joe Sanders, Jan Garber, Wayne King, Ted Weems and others of the big band masters wherever they were playing.

No cooking whatsoever was permitted in the rooms, but many a popper of popcorn was popped after towels had been stuffed under the door and around the transom to keep the tantalizing aroma confined to the room.

None remembered any girl having a car, but recalled a few boys who did. The girls and their dates walked to dances — held on the stage at the auditorium and later in the health building gyms.

Everybody "dressed" for dinner. "We never wore to dinner what we had worn to class during the day," one said. "Heels and hose were the general rule." Dinner was family style, served on the table in bowls by student workers. Eight were seated at each table. Milk, fresh from the school's herd on the college farm, was poured from big pitchers on the tables. None recalled anyone being made ill because it had come direct from the milking barn.

After dinner, some couples — usually the same ones every night — would pair off into the recesses of the spacious main parlor for some togetherness. Others would head for the Capitol Theater downtown, located about where Settle-Workman is now, hitchhiking down and back from in front of the old Collegiate Inn, where the bowling alley now stands, and at the old National Hotel downtown. Later, it was the Varsity Theatre which stood about Waylon Rayburn and L. D. Miller have been named from Murray. The interstate route, according to present tentative plans, would run from the vicinity of Marion, Ill., past Metropolis, Paducah, Mayfield, and Murray, across Kentucky Lake at Fort Henry, Tenn., and then go to the vicinity of Cumberland City, Tenn., below Dover and across Dixon County to Nashville.

Uterine Cancer Not Linked To Estrogen Pills, Say Doctors

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Yale researchers who studied cancer of the uterus say earlier studies linking the disease to estrogen pills were based on inaccurate research with a built-in bias toward finding cancer.

The doctors said no evidence exists that connects uterine cancer to estrogen. Moreover, they said, the faulty research technique may also have caused erroneous findings in studies that reported a relationship between birth control pills and breast cancer.

The new research, conducted by Ralph Horwitz and Alvan Feinstein, was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine, the same journal that carried three of the original estrogen reports.

Women often take estrogen to relieve the ill effects of menopause. Previous studies during the past three years warned that the medicine can cause cancer of the endometrium, the inner lining of the uterus.

Those studies, now challenged by the Yale doctors, showed that women who take estrogen during menopause face up to eight times the risk of uterine cancer as other women their age.

Horwitz and Feinstein counter that there is no evidence that estrogen will cause this kind of cancer. Their study found that estrogen increased the risk of uterine cancer 1.7 times — so slightly that no significant hazard can be shown.

"We conclude that the strength of the much-publicized association between estrogens and endometrial cancer has doubtless been exaggerated and needs re-evaluation," they wrote.

The Yale doctors stopped short of saying estrogen definitely does not cause this form of cancer. "All we can say is that the relationship has not been proved," Feinstein said in a telephone interview.

After cancer of the cervix, cancer of the uterine lining is the most common malignancy of the female reproductive tract. It usually occurs in women between 50 and 60.

Estrogen, often taken by women going through menopause, can cause bleeding of the uterus, a major symptom of uterine cancer. This bleeding factor led to what the new study says was a built-in bias in favor of finding a cancer link in the earlier reports.

In the earlier studies, researchers compared estrogen-using women who had been treated for uterine cancer with a group of control subjects — women who had other forms of cancer of the sex organs.

The Yale doctors said it may have been the estrogen, not the cancer, that caused these women to bleed and the bleeding could have prompted them to have hospital tests that detected cancer which otherwise would have gone unnoticed.

This way, they said, an unusually large number of estrogen-taking women were found to have uterine cancer — even though there is no proven link between the two.

Feinstein said, "Estrogen leads to the detecting of cancers, not to the causing of them."

82-Year-Old Learns To Read And Write

CHICAGO (AP) — McKinley Wright was an easy mark. The 82-year-old couldn't read or reckon: his bills, price tags and even the change in his pocket were a mystery, and his money seemed to disappear.

He got a $150 telephone bill although he never made a call — he couldn't read the numbers on the dial. And when he cashed his Social Security check a big stack of $1 bills seemed like a fair amount — he couldn't tell a $1 from a $10.

Then several months ago a homemaker assistant began calling on the former janitor at the housing project where he lives on Chicago's South Side, helping him to clean up the small, cluttered apartment.

She discovered a $150 telephone bill — a bill Wright couldn't read. The calls, Wright said when she explained the bill, were made by a burglar while he was hospitalized.

She found Wright couldn't read or write, and knew nothing of numbers. So she made flash cards, and they went to work.

"Everybody was taking advantage of Mr. Wright," the homemaker assistant, Annette Barrett, told Chicago Tribune columnist Anne Keegan. "They'd give him the money (from his Social Security check) in a big stack of $1 bills so it would look like a lot of money. ... So that's where his money was going," she said.

As the weeks passed, Wright learned to read a few words and to recognize the numbers from 1 through 100. And he learned how to write his name — skills he passed up to work in the fields as a boy.

Not long ago his big day came. Old McKinley Wright, who everyone knew couldn't read, write or count and would never catch you cheating, went to a neighborhood store to cash his monthly check.

Instead of marking his customary X, he wrote his name.

His tutor recalled: "The cashier's eyes just about bugged out of his head. He knew then something had happened to Mr. Wright and he had to be very careful. He gave Mr. Wright his money and Mr. Wright counted it out very slowly."

"It must have taken him 20 minutes but he stood right there and counted out loud and didn't move until he counted it out and it was right."

"When he left, the cashier was so shocked he came out of the store and watched us walk away down the street. He knew the free ride was over."

BANKRUPTCY DOWN
CHICAGO (AP) — Bankruptcy petitions declined again in the fiscal year ended June 30, according to the Commerce Clearing House.

The agency said the total of 202,951 case filings for the year marked a 5 percent drop from the 214,399 recorded the previous year. The all-time high was the 254,484 recorded in 1975.

California topped the state-by-state listing for the latest fiscal year, with 36,330 cases pending. New York, Illinois, Ohio and Alabama followed in that order, the clearing house said.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Meet In Owensboro This Weekend

The Executive Inn in Owensboro will be the site of the semi-annual convention of Jehovah's Witnesses to be held Nov. 18-19, it was announced today by George Bandarra, spokesman for the local congregation.

An estimated 1500 of Jehovah's Witnesses from Western Kentucky and Southern Indiana will be gathering for this two-day

Bible educational convention centered on the theme "Rendering Sacred Service With Loyalty."

Bandarra said, "The purpose of this convention is to build up loyalty to God, to His son Jesus Christ as our leader, to our Christian Brothers and to our fellow man, by using the Bible in our own lives and helping others appreciate the worth of the Bible as a guide for their lives."

Bandarra added, "Jehovah's Witnesses look forward to these two-day gatherings as a means to strengthen their faith and to keep them abreast to where we stand in the stream of Bible time."

The meetings begin at 9:55 a.m. Saturday and close at 4:15 p.m. Sunday. The highlight of the convention will be a talk Sunday at 2:00 p.m. by L. L. Roper, a traveling representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York, entitled "Meeting The Test of Christian Loyalty."

Bandarra stated that attendance is free and the public is invited to attend both days.

Dr. James W. Ramey, Boyle County coroner, said the preliminary results of an autopsy Wednesday indicated that Singleton died of a blood clot in the lung, a complication of the gunshot wound.

Singleton had been hospitalized since the shooting.

Racers After 3rd Straight Victory Over Hilltoppers

By TONY WILSON
Sports Editor

The Murray State football team will take the field Saturday afternoon, and once again it faces a team with a goal. Not just the usual goal, mind you, of wanting to win the game. That one, but another, too.

Western Kentucky enters the 1:30 p.m. contest at Roy Stewart Stadium with a 7-2 overall record — and 5-0 in the Ohio Valley Conference. To maintain a fighting chance for one of the four Division I-AA post-season playoff berths, it desperately needs a victory over the Racers.

The situation was much the same last week against Eastern Illinois in Charleston. The Panthers, then 7-2, HAD to defeat Murray for any hopes of a spot in the Division II playoffs. They did, by way of a 35-0 halftime lead and 35-14 finale.

A triumph by the Hilltoppers is also necessary to clinch the OVC title. Eastern Kentucky, which dropped a 17-16 decision to Western earlier in the year, is still in contention for a share of it, but needs a victory over Morehead and a Murray win.

All this means bad news for the Racers Saturday — right? Not so, says Murray coach Mike Gottfried. "Every football game is a big one. Murray teams have a history of playing well against Western, and we hope to continue it."

The Racers have played well in the squads' last two meetings. They won 16-6 in 1976 and again (21-13) last year. But the Hilltoppers lead the overall series between the two, 22-16-6.

You can bet the Racers are glad to be back in Murray. Their record is 4-6, but five of the six losses have been on the road — they are winless outside of Stewart Stadium this year — while they've won four home straight home games.

The offensive unit managed only 261 yards total offense against Eastern Illinois, dropping it from the top of the OVC stats in that department. Murray now trails Eastern Kentucky in total yards a game, 363.2-356.7. — Western ranks fifth with 331.6.

Individually, however, Hilltopper quarterback John Hall leads the league in both total offense and passing, with the Racers' Mike Dickens trailing him in each. Hall, only a sophomore, has averaged 149.1 yards a game running and passing and has completed 11.2 passes a game.

Dickens averages 124.8 in total offense and 9.6 passes a game.

Tailback Danny Lee Johnson averages more than twice the yardage than that of Western's leading ground-gainer, Jimmy Woods. Johnson has 1186 (118.6), compared to Woods' 300 (50.0).

Punter Wes Furgerson probably hopes to as well against the Hilltoppers as he did in 1977. The Murray senior averaged a booming 46.6 yards on eight kicks. Furgerson, incidentally, holds the OVC record for punts in one season — 89 in 1976.

OVC picks:
Last week, 2-2, 500; season, 12-8, 600.

Akron 32, Northern Iowa 12 — The Zips will vent their frustrations after two straight losses, including a 35-14 blasting by Eastern Kentucky last Saturday.

Austin Peay 22, East Tennessee 12 — The Buccaneers' win streak will end at one (they walloped Middle 34-0 last week), mainly because of the Gobs' outstanding defensive secondary. East Tennessee has lived and died — mainly died — by the pass all year.

Eastern Kentucky 34, Morehead 21 — The Colonels, while mauling Morehead, will strain to hear the result of the Murray-Western game. The fact that they are still in the running for a piece of the OVC title will be enough to drub Morehead.

Tennessee Tech 38, Middle Tennessee 7 — Tech will at least end what has been a disappointing season with a victory over the hapless Raiders. The Golden Eagles were preseason picks for the league title, but they need this one to finish 5-6. Middle is 1-8.

Murray State 27, Western Kentucky 22 — Okay, so Western needs this one. 17 seniors are playing their last game for Murray. Add that to a big crowd in Roy Stewart Stadium, and one have a combination to pull off an upset. Look for Danny Lee Johnson to regain his form.

Louisville Picked To Dominate Metro League

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Coaches and sportswriters are picking Louisville to dominate regular season basketball play in the Metro Conference and repeat as tournament champion.

"I hope they're right, but I don't think we'll be good as last year," said Coach Denny Crum, beginning his seventh season with the Cardinals. Louisville was 23-7 last year.

The preseason votes were taken Wednesday at the annual Metro Conference press day.

Louisville was the unanimous pick of the sportswriters to win the regular season championship, followed by Memphis State; Cincinnati; Florida State, last year's winner; Tulane and St. Louis.

Coaches predicted the regular season finishers would be, in order, Louisville, Cincinnati, Memphis State, Tulane, Florida State and St. Louis.

Virginia Tech, which replaced Georgia Tech in the conference this summer after the Yellowjackets withdrew to join the Atlantic Coast Conference, is not eligible for the regular season championship.

The conference also welcomed three new coaches. Ed Badger, former head coach of the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association, replaced Gale Catlett at Cincinnati. Catlett now is at West Virginia.

Joe Williams moved from Furman to take over at Florida State after Hugh Durham, Metro coach of the year in 1977, went to Georgia.

College Picks

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent

It's showdown in show town when Southern Cal and UCLA renew their backyard feud in Los Angeles, while an extra helping of grits is the order in the Deep South where unpredictable, unimpressive Auburn challenges the title aspirations of eighth-ranked Georgia.

These are the sources of this week's upset specials in college football. The Trojans and Bulldogs have the edge in talent and statistics, but, as the commercial says, it's not the dog in the fight that counts — it's the fight in the dog.

Last week: 38-15, 715 (Nebraska over Oklahoma). Season: 348-124, 737.

UCLA 25, Southern Cal 22: Rick Bashore picks up more yardage with his arm for UCLA than Charles White gets for USC with his legs.

Nebraska 38, Missouri 13: Hipp, Berns & Co. still on the wave of euphoria but should beware of a letdown.

Oklahoma 21, Oklahoma State 13: Normally the difference would be greater but this isn't a normal week for the downcast Sooners.

Michigan 34, Purdue 20: Rick Leach gets a chance to build on his Heisman Trophy credentials.

Auburn 18, Georgia 15: The Plainsmen have looked alternately good and miserable — should be ready for a high.

Texas 30, Texas Christian 7: Rarely do the Longhorns come so far with so little to play for.

Notre Dame 20, Georgia Tech 7: Our Dixie spies say Tech will pull an upset. The Irish are too deep in talent.

Clemson 22, Maryland 17: The Terps are slightly favored among the odds-makers. Clemson has Steve Fuller and a good defense.

Arkansas 26, Texas A&M 20:

The Razorbacks' Ron Calgagni has a 61 percent completion average, which should suffice.

Michigan State 33, Northwestern 7: This one is such a cinch they took it off the betting line.

Mississippi State 24, Louisiana State 20: Both come off losses but Charley McClendon's boys at LSU took the worst beating.

Pittsburgh 27, Army 6: No Blanchard and Davis touchdown twins on this Army 11, only sweet memories.

Ohio State 36, Indiana 14: Woody Hayes, with a 6-2-1 mark, is just playing out the string.

Yale 15, Harvard 7: The Blue and the Crimson — there was a day the whole nation would be watching and listening.

Florida State 22, Navy 14: A fine year for the Midshipmen, who can turn attention to the Army game.

Stanford 25, California 14: They call it simply "The Game" in Northern California. Stanford is the best 6-4 team extant.

THE OTHERS:
EAST
Syracuse 23, Boston College 7; Brown 31, Columbia 12; Cornell 19, Penn 6; Delaware 26, Colgate 18; Rutgers 24, Holy Cross 14; Dartmouth 13, Princeton 10.

Blue-Gold Game Is Rescheduled

The Murray State men's basketball Blue-Gold game, originally set for tonight, has been rescheduled. The annual affair will be Monday at 7:30 p.m. in University Fieldhouse.

It will be the last public scrimmage before the Racers open their regular season Nov. 27 at home against Tennessee Wesleyan. Admission to the scrimmage is free to the public.

Junior-High Jamboree Scheduled Saturday

The county junior-high basketball teams will kick off their season with a jamboree at Jeffrey Gymnasium Saturday.

Sponsored by the Calloway County Athletic Boosters, the event will begin at 6:30 p.m. with the East Calloway girls team against the North girls, followed by the East boys against Southwest.

The Southwest girls, who drew a bye, will play the East-North winner for the girls championship, and the North boys will battle the East-Southwest winner for the boys title.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners, and a special award will be presented to the school exhibiting the most spirit.

A chili supper, sponsored by the cooks at the county elementary schools, will precede the event. Serving will be from 5:30-7 p.m.

Western's Yeater Joins Pro Ranks

BOWLING GREEN — Julia Yeater, head women's basketball coach at Western Kentucky University the past two seasons, has resigned her post to accept the head coach spot for the Minnesota Fillies of the new Women's Professional Basketball League.

She posted a 45-17 record in her two seasons and led the Hilltoppers to the runner-up spot in the Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference tournament both years.

Former Western guard Brenda Chapman, who scored 40 points in a game against Murray last season, is currently a member of the Fillies' squad.

Man Sentenced For Attack On Referee

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A Wichita man accused of attacking a referee during a football game between Kansas and Texas A&M Sept. 9 faces 60 days in jail or 50 hours of community service work in Lawrence.

That was the alternative given David Dwyer, 30, Wednesday by Douglas County District Judge Mike Elwell.

"I'm sorry it happened," said Dwyer, who pleaded no contest Nov. 2 to misdemeanor charges of battery against a police officer and simple battery.

Elwell stayed a 60-day sentence, provided Dwyer completes the community service work within the next month. Dwyer will commute between Wichita and Lawrence on weekends, a round trip of 300 miles.

He was accused of shoving a policewoman and running on the field at Memorial Stadium to strike referee Tom Fincken, who had signaled a touchdown for Texas A&M.

Parker Not Bargaining Too Hard

By the Associated Press
PITTSBURGH — Dave Parker, whose line drives helped make him the National League's Most Valuable Player, apparently isn't driving too hard a bargain for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Right now, I'm going to say that we will sign Dave Parker," Pirates General Manager Pete Peterson said Wednesday after Parker was named MVP.

With one year left on a three-year contract, Parker could become a free-agent after next season. But talks are underway on a new pact.

"I'm very optimistic that Dave is going to spend the rest of his career with Pittsburgh," said Peterson.

Parker, winner of two straight NL batting titles, took the same positive stance, but he put his thoughts to rhyme.

"I said last season, 'When the leaves turn brown, I'll be wearing my second-batting crown,'" he said.

"At this time, I'll say that when the leaves turn green, I'll be playing for the same team."

That brought grins from Peterson and Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, who flanked Parker at a press conference.

"Dave's the best ballplayer in the game today. Nobody can do it better," said Tanner, who watched the 6-foot-5, 225-pound right fielder lead a stretch drive last season despite a cracked cheekbone.

"The amazing thing about it is that he hasn't even begun to hit his peak yet. Dave Parker is going to have his good years starting now," Tanner added.

While Tanner rates Parker the best in baseball, Parker apparently isn't insisting on the top salary.

"I don't think it's necessary that I show prestige by saying, 'Hey, I'm going to be the highest paid player in the game,'" Parker said.

"I'm publicized as the best, so I think it's only right that I receive one of the better salaries. But it doesn't have to be anything larger than Reggie Jackson or whoever. It's just getting the security I need for later years."

Parker said he also doesn't crave the heightened public attention that playing in a larger city would afford.

"Recognition matters to me," he said, "but I think I can accomplish that just by having productive years. People can't shrug their shoulders when they look at the statistics."

Parker currently does no product endorsements on television or in print. He said doesn't crave them either.

The Pirates say they hope to have a tentative agreement with Parker by Thanksgiving. "We may not have a signed contract at that time, but we'll have things wrapped up," said Peterson.

Lakers Post 11th Straight Win In NBA

By the Associated Press
It isn't the kind of talent you have, says Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, it's the way you use it.

And the Los Angeles Lakers are in the enviable position of having both the talent and the ability to use it wisely. That was evident Wednesday night after the Lakers posted their 11th straight National Basketball Association victory with a 133-126 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

Coach Jerry West has certainly seen the dramatic difference from last season, when the Lakers finished fourth in the Pacific Division. Currently, they're just a half-game off Seattle's division-leading pace with a solid 12-4 record.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Denver Nuggets 109-103 in overtime; the Seattle SuperSonics routed the New Orleans Jazz 135-118; the Washington Bullets hammered the Milwaukee Bucks 138-111; the Chicago Bulls turned back the Houston Rockets 117-103; the Phoenix Suns stopped the San Antonio Spurs 125-119 and the Kansas City Kings turned back the Atlanta Hawks 109-100.

Adrian Dantley's early scoring and Abdul-Jabbar's late flurry provided the Lakers with their victory. Dantley, who finished with 33 points, had 17 in the second period when the Lakers outscored Detroit 43-20 and added eight more early in the third to help Los Angeles roar in front 86-71.

At that point, Abdul-Jabbar was sidelined with his fifth personal foul and Detroit countered with a 25-10 uprising of its own, led by rookie John Long's five baskets to even the score at 96. But Abdul-Jabbar returned and hit four straight baskets to put the Lakers in front to stay.

76ers 109, Nuggets 103
Julius Erving scored 10 of his game-high 33 points in a five-minute overtime period as Philadelphia defeated Denver.

The 76ers scored their 10th victory in the last 11 games despite a 29-point performance by Denver's George McGinnis, who returned to Philadelphia for the first time since being traded to the Nuggets last summer for Bobby Jones. McGinnis fouled out with 4:17 remaining in the overtime period.

Sonics 135, Jazz 118
Fred Brown led seven Seattle scorers in double figures with 20 points as the SuperSonics defeated New Orleans.

Seattle trailed 26-22 with 2:39 left in the first period, but took control with a 16-5 spurt that carried into the second period. Wally Walker, who scored 14 points, capped the rally with a basket that gave Seattle a 38-31 lead with 9:36 left in the half.

Bullets 138, Bucks 111
Kevin Grevey's 24 points led Washington over listless Milwaukee. The Bullets jumped to a 31-14 lead midway through the first quarter and never were threatened while coasting past the slumping Bucks, who now have lost nine straight road games.

Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge scored 21 points each while playing about half the game for the Bullets.

Bulls 117, Rockets 103
Reggie Theus scored a career-high 27 points and Mickey Johnson added 25 more as Chicago raced past Houston. Artis Gilmore added 20 points and pulled down 11 rebounds as the Bulls spurred to a 12-point halftime lead and never were headed.

Suns 125, Spurs 119
Paul Westphal hit six key points in the final 46 seconds and finished with 39 to propel Phoenix past San Antonio.

San Antonio's Larry Kenon had tied the game at 117 with a pair of free throws with less than a minute remaining. But then Westphal tossed in two free throws with 46 seconds remaining to put the Suns ahead by two points and added two consecutive baskets in the next 29 seconds to ice the game.

Kings 109, Hawks 100
Otis Birdsong scored 26 points and Sam Lacey added 22 to lead Kansas City over Atlanta and move the Kings into a first-place tie with Denver in the Midwest Division. Kansas City, which had not been in first since early in the 1974-75 season, took the lead early in the first quarter and held it the rest of the way.

TVA Could End Fiscal Year With Huge Deficit Unless Rates Raised

By MATT YANCEY

Associated Press Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority power system will end the fiscal 1979 year with a $75 million deficit unless rates are raised within the next nine months, says a report presented today to the government utility's directors.

TVA Chairman S. David Freeman and Director Richard M. Freeman, however, said last week they are inclined to forego a rate increase in January because of already-high winter heating bills. That action would increase the likelihood of an even larger rate hike in April.

In its latest quarterly financial statement, TVA's power staff estimates the cost of operating the seven-state power system for the fiscal year ending next Sept. 30 at $2.974 billion. Revenues for the same period are estimated at $2.899 billion.

Dissolving the fuel adjustment charge on customers' monthly bills and folding it into TVA's basic rates is up for consideration by the two directors this month in addition to any action on a rate hike.

Saying it confuses consumers on how much they are paying for power, David Freeman has advocated doing away with the fuel adjustment almost since he joined the TVA board in September 1977.

President Awaits Response From Egypt On Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter awaited an Egyptian response today to a proposed American compromise for clearing a major hurdle to a peace treaty with Israel.

President Anwar Sadat's response on how to deal with the Palestinian issue was being delivered to the White House by Hosni Mubarak, the Egyptian vice president.

On Wednesday, Sadat said the peace talks are facing a "serious crisis" and suggested a suspension might be needed while both sides think things over.

Meanwhile, the Israeli cabinet delayed its consideration of the latest U.S. proposal, waiting for the Egyptian presentation to Carter. The president had urged Israel not to take a final position on the American proposal until during the last four years, is calculated each month on the basis of TVA's fuel costs two months earlier and then added to the basic rate on a customer's bill.

he had heard from Egypt.

The American compromise offers deals with several unsettled issues, including the link between the talks and future discussions on the fate of Palestinians on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

Sadat, in remarks to university professors and students, said "we have gone a long way at the Washington talks and have achieved 90 percent of the road."

But he added that the discussions "are at a serious crisis and if we can avoid it in order to achieve the remaining 10 percent by suspending the talks for a while to allow the parties to think again and then resume, so be it."

He neither elaborated nor referred to the response Mubarak was carrying to Carter.

Famous American Anthropologist Margaret Mead Is Dead At 76

By KEVIN MCKEAN

AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The walking staff which supported her tireless, inquisitive march between the world's simplest societies and its most complex lay propped near the hospital bed when Margaret Mead died.

"It was in a corner, waiting for her to get up and use it," said Dr. Rhoda Metraux, a friend and associate for 36 years.

The famous American anthropologist and outspoken advocate of human tolerance died Wednesday after a year-long struggle against cancer of the pancreas. She was 76.

A memorial service was scheduled Friday at Columbia University with private funeral and burial at an undisclosed time in Buckingham, Pa.

Miss Mead's black, lacquered staff, which was often mistaken for a tribal token, was a traditional British walking stick known as a "thumb-stick." She began carrying one in 1960, when a doctor advised her to use a cane after an ankle injury. She said she adopted the stick rather than be forced to stoop.

The injury healed but the staff remained, giving Miss Mead's short, rotund, often robed figure a Biblical air. Sometimes, she would wave it at meetings to gain the floor.

It was Oct. 2 when Miss Mead abandoned the tower office she had occupied for 52 years at the American Museum of Natural History here to enter New York Hospital.

A niece, Madeline Lee, said she talked, wrote and read avidly until only a few days before her death.

Miss Mead was unconscious on the morning of her death, said Dr. Metraux, a research associate at the museum and among those at her deathbed.

But at the moment of death, she smiled, she said.

"It was as if she knew where she was going and it was where she wanted to go," said Dr. Metraux, who, as an anthropology student during World War II, belonged to the first of three generations of young people to come under Miss Mead's influence.

"It was a very gentle and quiet smile so that you felt very sad. But also—I'm sorry this seems a little sentimental—as if she had at the end of the illness returned to us from a far country and said goodbye," she said.

Official Says Widespread Student Misconduct Is Still Urban Problem

FRANKFORT — Delinquency, drug abuse, vandalism, truancy and other forms of anti-social student conduct do not pose serious problems for Kentucky schools except those in the state's most populous, urban areas, according to David Jackson, director of the state division of alternative education.

Last spring, the 1978 General Assembly passed legislation instructing the state Department of Education to develop a comprehensive program dealing with student behavior problems on a statewide level but retaining local authority for actual disciplinary measures.

Consequently, an alternative education plan was prepared by the department and approved by the state Board of Elementary and Secondary Education at a recent meeting.

The plan presents guidelines which local school boards may elect to follow in tailoring disciplinary procedures and programs to their particular needs.

"In Kentucky, widespread student misconduct and its disruptive influence are still basically an urban problem," said Jackson. The small size of most Kentucky school districts, he explained, discourages discipline problems characteristic of "big city" environments.

Jackson said the term "alternative" was used to avoid "negative labeling" of students who, for a variety of reasons, have not responded to traditional school programming and create problems for the regular classroom.

"Alternative education may pertain to many different aspects of unconventional schooling," he said. "But we have narrowed our focus to student behavior problems. We're trying to first assess, then apply, some workable alternatives to older, outdated methods of student discipline."

The division of alternative education is strictly a service vendor for school districts, providing leadership and technical assistance in the development of local plans. Such local programs usually are funded through federal grants that require complex application procedures and constant revision.

Jackson said his agency furnishes local school districts with details and evaluations of current alternative projects being studied in many parts of the nation.

McLean Board To Meet With Students

CALHOUN, Ky. (AP) — The McLean County Board of Education is scheduled to meet in executive session today after about 40 students staged a demonstration at the county courthouse to protest what they considered to be the light punishment handed five of their schoolmates for fighting.

The demonstration Wednesday followed by a day the walkout of about 100 students from classes in protest of the three-day suspensions given five other students who were involved in a fight Friday.

School Superintendent Richard Hopkins and Otis Griffin, school board chairman, met with the students after Wednesday's demonstration, and agreed to call a meeting of the school board. The board is scheduled to meet with student representatives. The students agreed after the meeting with school officials to return to classes today.

About 700 students are enrolled at the high school.

Reasons Office Under Executive Branch

Lt. Gov. Stovall Says Lieutenant Governor Should Chair LRC

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall and two former lieutenant governors say the 1980 General Assembly should restore the lieutenant governor as chairman of the Legislative Research Commission.

Otherwise, they indicated to a legislative subcommittee Wednesday, it makes little sense to keep appropriating hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly for operation of the office. The 1974 Legislature, at the behest of Gov. Julian Carroll, who was then lieutenant governor, removed the lieutenant governor as chairman.

Carroll's rationale was that this would make the Legislature stronger and more independent because an executive official would not dominate it.

Instead, Mrs. Stovall said, the move has placed the LRC under control of the executive branch.

"He (Carroll) wanted to weaken the lieutenant governor's office at the same time he strengthened his hold on the Legislature — and all in the name of independence for you legislators," she said.

Mrs. Stovall, who has complained of lack of meaningful duties, said that U.S. Sen. Wendell Ford and Carroll, when they were lieutenant governors and chairmen of the LRC, "both got a lot done...a lot more than I've been able to do with a staff of 11."

She said that currently the lieutenant governor has been reduced to being president of the Senate for 120 days (two sessions) every four years "and nothing else."

The lieutenant governor's salary now is $31,300 annually, plus use of a mansion and many other fringe benefits. Former Gov. and Lt. Gov. Lawrence Wetherby told the legislators it is true that lieutenant governors often become governors, but "we're not paying them to run for governor."

He said the great advantage of having the lieutenant governor as LRC chairman is that it provides input for that officeholder into both the executive and legislative branches, thereby advancing coordination and efficiency in government.

He and Harry Lee Waterfield, who has been lieutenant governor twice, agreed that the 1980 General Assembly should specifically set out a number of duties for the office as well as restore the lieutenant governor to the LRC.

Waterfield said that if the lieutenant governor is not to be given specific duties, "you ought to take away the pay and fringes."

Mrs. Stovall's stance departs somewhat from Wetherby's and Waterfield's views in that she favors combining the offices of lieutenant governor and secretary of state, which seven other states already have done.

This would take a change in the state constitution.

Waterfield commented that even without legislative authorization of duties, a lieutenant governor has "plenty to do if you just look for it."

Mrs. Stovall is a Democratic candidate for governor in 1979. Waterfield operates a large insurance firm in Frankfort. Wetherby, who also lives here, is retired.

GM officials from Detroit will join state and local officials at a news conference Friday in Carrollton to outline the project, the newspaper said.

According to one source quoted by the newspaper, transportation was the determining factor in GM's locating at Carrollton. The company reportedly was also considering sites near Bowling Green and Cincinnati.

Citizens Join In 'Great American Smokeout'

By Louise Cook
Associated Press Writer

Marleen Duley started smoking seven years ago. Today, the 29-year-old Philadelphia woman joins Americans across the country in trying to give up cigarettes for 24 hours as part of the second annual "Great American Smokeout."

"I decided for one day I can take the chance," said Ms. Duley, administrative assistant to the chief of Philadelphia's smoking prevention program. "If things really get rough, there's always the next day....I know you shouldn't smoke, that it's bad for your health, but I do enjoy it. I felt this one-day stopping may encourage me to really stop—I hope."

The American Cancer Society, which is sponsoring the smokeout, estimates that at least 5 million people will participate. Like Ms. Duley, local society officials say they hope the effects of the one-day action will linger.

"It's psychological," said Dot Zellner, public relations director for the South Florida chapter of the cancer society. "If they know that they can stop for one day, they can do it for longer."

Julius Richmond, the surgeon general of the United States, said he hoped those who stop smoking today "will then find the willpower to join permanently the growing ranks of former smokers."

The society estimates that 31 percent of the nation's more than 50 million smokers tried to quit during last year's smokeout on Nov. 17. Thirteen percent of them lasted through the day, the society said. When contacted 60 days later, 10 percent of those who passed the 24-hour test said they had quit for good. About 34 percent of the nation's adult population now smokes, compared to 42 percent in 1964.

The smokeout was criticized by the Tobacco Institute. The group said the society was "misleading the public with its tunnel vision of the cancer problem" and added: "No individual needs the advice of the American Cancer Society—or the Tobacco Institute for that matter—as to whether he or she may enjoy smoking."

In advance of the smokeout, supporters handed out buttons and pledge cards and organized contests and parades. The Colorado chapter of the cancer society used the slogan "Stamp Out Dragon Breath" to win support for the smokeout. Promoting the campaign was a six-foot green and yellow dragon with pink wings.

Ray Schweitzer, city manager of North Las Vegas, who quit during last year's smokeout and hasn't gone back to cigarettes, was honored Wednesday night at a cancer society party.

Mayor R. Paul Saylor of Berlin, Pa., a Somerset County town of about 1,700, urged all community residents to join the smokeout. "I wouldn't guarantee that everyone will quit," said Saylor, a cigar smoker himself. "But I think it's a good thing."

Ford Says New Congress Could Be Conservative

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP) — The 96th Congress, which convenes Jan. 15, could be the most fiscally conservative in recent memory, according to one of its members, U.S. Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky.

Ford's prediction was contained in remarks prepared for delivery Wednesday at a meeting of the Lincoln Trail Area Development District.

Ford warned the group not to anticipate spending increases in federal programs which affect state and local governments and to be prepared to make the necessary fiscal adjustments.

"Congress has finally realized that until we reduce the size of the federal deficit, inflation will not go away," Ford declared.

He said the 95th Congress held the line on spending in many deserving areas to bring the federal deficit down.

"Just last week the president's Council on Economic Advisers estimated that spending for social and other non-defense programs must be cut between $15 billion and $20 billion below trend levels if we are to achieve the president's anti-inflationary budget goals," he added.

Ford said these goals include reducing the federal deficit to $30 billion or less from the $38.9 billion it is now.

Carroll Requests Extension Of Mine Regulation Deadline

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll has requested a 60-to-90-day extension of the Nov. 27 deadline for comments on the proposed permanent federal strip-mine regulations, saying the state hasn't had time to prepare effective comments.

In a telegram Wednesday to U.S. Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, Carroll also asked for a six-month extension in which to file the state's permanent regulatory program under the 1977 federal surface mining act.

Walter Heine, director of the Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining, had said in Frankfort Tuesday that Kentucky and other coal producing states probably will get a six-month extension until Aug. 3 to submit those proposals.

Heine also said even though the proposed federal regulations were issued several months late, he didn't feel the comment period could be extended because it would not give OSM enough time to review comments and complete its regulations by January.

Carroll told Andrus he was advised that after the Nov. 27 deadline, Kentucky can no longer communicate with OSM on the proposed regulations.

"Apparently, that decision was made on the premise that the state represents the special interests of the industry. We resent that implication," Carroll said. "This closed door position is simply not an acceptable arrangement."

During his visit to Kentucky, Heine discussed the proposed regulations with environmental groups, coal industry representatives, state environmental protection officials and the governor.

At a press conference after his meeting with Carroll, Heine said he was sympathetic to the request that communications not be cut off.

He said a number of other states have expressed the same concern, and said he believed it likely that an informal channel of communication could be kept open between the states and the federal agency.

Gary Auxier, the governor's press secretary, said Carroll was aware of Heine's comments on the probable extension of the filing deadline and his interest in keeping communications open, but that the governor's main interest was in obtaining an extension of the comment period.

Carroll told Andrus that, despite Heine's visit, he felt he still had not been afforded "a receptive ear...from your program people."

Chapter To Meet Saturday

A West Kentucky chapter of the Association for the Education of Young Children is expected to be organized at a special meeting scheduled Saturday, Nov. 18, at Murray State University.

To be held from 10 until 11:30 a.m. in Room 2 of the Early Childhood Center in the Student Center, the meeting is open to any one interested in the betterment of young children, especially nursery school and day care workers, teachers and parents, according to Dr. Charles May, chairman of the Department of Childhood Studies at the university.

The West Kentucky group will be affiliated with both the state and national associations and its members will be entitled to the same benefits as accorded those on the higher levels.

May identified some of these as: Reduced fees at workshops and conferences and the associational magazine, "Young Children," which is a nationally respected journal for those professionally engaged in working with young children.

The basic objectives of the organization on all levels is to help and support young children through appropriate legislation, professional sharing and expertise improvement, he said.

Mrs. Joyce Munro, Louisville, president of the state-wide association, will be at the meeting to discuss organizational structures, objectives and benefits.

OLDER PEOPLE BACK IN SCHOOL

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Senior citizens who want to continue their education are becoming a growing market for colleges and universities, says an authority in the field of gerontology.

Glenn McKibbin of Syracuse University's Gerontology Center says older people are rapidly becoming an important consumer group in the field of education. McKibbin says a growing trend in higher education is to reach out to older people and include their needs in course offerings.

"In some ways, institutions of higher education have been forced to look to this segment of the population because of the shrinking younger adult population," McKibbin says. "On the other side of the population spectrum are a greater number of older persons reaching 65, 70 and further, who have an interest in pursuing education."

FCC Crackdown On CB'ers Results In Fines, Revocations

By JOHN D. McCLAIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Mynah Bird's gone 10-7. But it wasn't testimony that the bird was screeching over its owner's CB radio in the Baltimore area that caused it to go off the air — 10-7 in radio parance. Rather it was the finding of a Federal Communications Commission administrative law judge that its owner had violated FCC call-letter rules that brought about revocation of the bird owner's CB license. It was one of the latest instances of a continuing FCC crackdown on CB rule violations — a crackdown that results not only in license revocations, but in thousands of dollars in fines each month.

A recent FCC announcement said 123 radio operators had been fined a total of $9,975 for illegal operations between July 14 and Sept. 23. Another told of $6,151 in fines collected from 71 CBers between April 20 and Oct. 2.

The violations include failure to use call signs, using frequencies not authorized for CB use, excessive power, overheight antennas and repeated failure to reply to FCC violation notices.

Typical fines range from $10 to $250, although some total more for more serious violations.

The Mynah Bird's owner was cited by FCC engineers for failing to use his FCC call sign, transmitting whistling sounds and refusing to permit spot FCC inspection of his radio equipment.

On the night they attempted unsuccessfully to inspect his equipment, the engineers said they heard him "whistling" over his radio.

Not so, the CBER told Judge Byron E. Harrison of the whistling citation. The "whistle" heard by the engineers was, he testified, a "screeching sound" made by the Mynah Bird his wife made him move from the living room to his radio shack because of its odor.

The engineers replied that while they thought the sound was a whistle, it could have been a screech.

The CBER said he refused the engineers' inspection request because the pictures on their FCC identification cards did not resemble them.

Harrison ruled the whistling charge had not been established and that the CBER had the right to refuse the inspection request because of outdated photographs on the inspectors' FCC identification cards.

But he said the CBER's license should be revoked for failing to identify his station with his FCC call letters, although he waived the 12-month waiting period for seeking a new license. He said the CBER could apply for another license in six months.

Improper Handling Of Funds Revealed At MSU

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — A purchasing official at Morehead State University has resigned after acknowledging that he "improperly handled" university funds.

The school's board of regents accepted the resignation Wednesday of William Ewers, assistant director of purchasing and food services at the urging of MSU President Morris Norfleet.

Ewers, Norfleet said, was in poor health.

Asked by Dr. W.H. Cartmell, a Maysville regent, whether any restitution was planned for the funds that Ewers acknowledged he'd mishandled, Norfleet said the official's letter of resignation "stood on its own."

The regents accepted the resignation after an hour's executive session in which they presumably discussed the matter.

Ewers' letter, dated Tuesday and sent to Norfleet, said:

"In submitting this resignation, I acknowledge that during the course of my employment I have improperly handled public funds belonging to the university."

Norfleet refused to elaborate on the matter following the board meeting.

Asked whether the university plans any legal action against Ewers, Norfleet said, "the action taken today (by the regents) finalizes action from the university's standpoint."

Ewers, 57, who joined the MSU staff in 1966, could not be reached for comment.

In other business, the regents heard a report by Norfleet that this fall's enrollment was more than 7,700 students, or about a 7 percent increase over last fall.

The regents approved the appointment of Porter Dally as MSU budget director at a salary of $23,000 a year. Dally is a former official in the state Office for Policy and Management.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A charge of terroristic threatening against Richard D. Jefferson has been dropped in Fayette District Court nearly two months after Jefferson was charged with murdering his wife, Bertie, who filed it.

Mrs. Jefferson obtained the warrant Sept. 5, 18 days before she was shot to death. It was served in late October.

Judge Paul Gudgel said serving the warrant was the only way to remove it from court records and that nothing would come of it since Jefferson has since been charged with murder.

Court officials said the warrant was among thousands of warrants that piled up faster than police and sheriff's deputies could serve them.

Many Features Included In 1978 Veterans Housing Benefit Act

An increase from $17,500 to $25,000 as the maximum guaranty for Veterans Administration home loans is one of several important features of the "Veterans Housing Benefits Act of 1978," according to Max Cleland, Administrator of Veterans Affairs.

The legislation, which was signed on October 18 by President Carter, also permits certain severely disabled veterans to obtain a VA grant of up to $30,000 to buy or adapt a residence to meet their special needs, Cleland said.

VA grants for these so-called "wheelchair homes" were formerly limited to $25,000.

Cleland pointed out that the new bill should be of special benefit to an estimated 168,000 Vietnam Era veterans because it reduces the length of active duty service required for eligibility for VA home, condominium or mobile home loan guaranty benefits.

Vietnam Era veterans now need to have served only 90 days on active duty — one day of which must have been during the period of August 5, 1964 and May 7, 1975 — to be eligible for these VA benefits.

"The new law brings the eligibility requirements for Vietnam veterans in line with those for World War II and Korean Conflict veterans," Cleland said.

The legislation also permits VA to guarantee loans for energy-related home improvements, including installation of solar heating and cooling systems.

In addition, the law authorizes VA to guarantee loans for converted condominiums as of July 1, 1979. The agency currently is authorized to guarantee condominium loans in buildings constructed and sold as this type of dwelling.

Cleland said another significant section of the legislation restructures VA's mobile home loan program — setting a $17,500 loan maximum and extending the maximum loan term for single-wide mobile homes to 15 years, an increase of 36 months.

Cleland said veterans may obtain complete details of the expanded loan guaranty program at any VA regional office.
